

FEEDBACK SUMMARY

Event: Jalima Colors
Speaker: Jasmine Cordero
Date: July 27, 2017

Key Take-Aways:

- I'm green
- Manager and co-worker are blue
- Used for interviews
- I learned that my primary color is yellow and my secondary is blue
- These colors are used to understand certain people
- These colors can help people get along

Action Items:

- Knowing where I fall on the spectrum allows me to see how my co-workers might see me
- I have a better understanding of how my manager and co-worker operates and how to approach them
- I can figure out where the interviewer falls to understand how to approach them and how well we would get along
- I can now use this color spectrum to identify people around and learn how to communicate with them
- I will take these colors into consideration when working in a team or at an office
- I will apply this knowledge into my everyday situations

Overall:

- I can figure out how to handle situations with managers and co-workers in the most diplomatic fashion because I understand them better
- I loved talking about the different colors because it makes me think about everyone around and how we are all different and I knew this in the beginning but I didn't know how to identify them.
